

“As I Travel This District, People Ask Me Why I’m Running For The Texas Senate

Here’s What I Tell Them...”

“They say a journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step. I’m new to politics, but my journey towards being your next State Senator has been a journey that I will cherish for a lifetime. Winning this race is important, but how we win the race is just as important.

We’ve run a good campaign, one that I am very proud of. With those first steps I’ve addressed issues that are important to our community. I am confident that by working together, we will provide solutions to those issues.”

Issues such as:

Education

I believe it’s critical for our state to provide the tools and incentives to help our teachers do what they do best—teach our children. Our teachers need someone to tirelessly advocate on their behalf and help keep politics out of the classroom.

Healthcare

I will work to expand Medicaid for uninsured working families, support the health of new mothers, and provide more education opportunities to encourage young people to pursue careers in front line healthcare. I believe it is unacceptable that our residents in South Texas aren’t afforded the same access to healthcare as in all other parts of the country.

Small Business

I support a strong business environment, especially for small businesses who are the driving force in job creation. We need to increase our investment in workforce development training by partnering with community colleges and Texas State Technical Institute, and ensure state contracts are awarded evenly to businesses of all sizes.

Yes, I am new to politics, but as I continue on this journey that seems to be a good thing.

I bring with me new ideas and a commitment to restoring faith and confidence in our political system. If you have ever met me, you know I am sincere, and the type of person who will represent South Texas with honesty and integrity.
