

Harris-Waltz Path to Marxism

When one looks and listens to the answers to questions put to the Harris-Waltz duo one can't help but notice immediately that neither knows what to say. They can express no details on how they might carry through with their plans for us. In fact, they don't seem to know what their plans are. Maybe that's why they have no interviews.

Both candidates are from their records, devout Marxists, socialists and even communists as they have displayed. Yet they either will not or can not tell us what their real goals are. We can think it is their reluctance to describe their goals for us because they do not want us to see where they are going, else we will immediately say, "No, we don't want any more socialism."

In 2014, the modern socialist leader in the U.S., Barak Hussein Obama, Was Quoted, "The idea is to bring socialism to America without the people realizing the country is being socialized" Wow! Has that move ever been successful.

Now, the language is being continued that wealthy people at some arbitrary figure are expected to pay higher taxes to reach their share, already ignoring the fact that the progressive (I say "regressive" because that is what it is) tax system already extracts the great majority of our actual funds from the top 10 percent. A truly "fair" system would be 10 or 15 percent from each income earner.

Their plan is to simply have the government pay for all college education, all public health, a chunk of home down payment, day-care for working parents, a national kinder program and abortions for any woman at any time for any reason The list goes on. The dollar total for such programs would be astronomical and far beyond our national productivity to sponsor.

Having been to eight communist countries on newspaper study missions, I know that such plans are hopeless. Governments cannot accomplish these wholesale goals. It has been proven that the only system of government that helps the most people is the capitalist system we practice in our republic.

Our system brings freedom of action to the most people. The Harris-Waltz system brings outlandish power to the few at the top. From the outset, whoever controls a national health system controls the people

With the other facets of our living condition controlled, there would be no freedom as the common denominator slides downward so that we all live at the lowest level instead of being able to rise above it.

Our Democrats in the Valley need to sit back to size up the situation. Do they want to be among the useful idiots who make it possible for our great Constitution and Bill of Rights to be shredded, or do they want to be among those who voted for its preservation in this 2024 voting season? Today's Democratic Party is like a cadre of lemmings being marched into the sea by false leaders. History will show, perhaps too late, who was on the right side of freedom in the republic.

The future of those who follow you is in your hands. Think smart! Vote smart! Live smart!
