Jason Wallace Named CEO of Brownsville Community Health Center

The Board of Directors of Brownsville Community Health Center in Brownsville, TX is pleased to announce that Jason Wallace, MBA has been named its new Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Wallace holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia, and a Master of Business Administration with a concentration in Health Services Management from the University of Dallas. Mr. Wallace comes to Brownsville Community Health Center with 19 years of healthcare leadership experience in Community Health Centers and Healthcare Systems.

Mr. Wallace most recently served as the Chief Operating Officer of HHM Health, a Federal-ly Qualified Health Center in Dallas, TX, focusing on being a center of excellence for preventive health, where he helped to expand their physical footprint and operations from a single location with 20 employees to six locations with over 120 employees during his tenure. He has also served as an Administrator of multiple Community Oriented Primary Care clinics at Parkland Health & Hospital System, an Administrator of a sub-specialty ambulatory clinic and Director of Community-Facing programs for Asthma and Healthy Weight Management at Children's Health System of Texas. Additionally, Mr. Wallace served in a leadership role as a principal consultant at Dell Healthcare implementing electronic health records in private practices and health systems in Texas and several other states before being hired to the role of Chief Operating Officer at HHM.

Mr. Wallace is committed to serving the under-resourced and underserved communities helped by the Brownsville Community Health Center and is looking to build strategies and programs with a focus on stabilizing operations and expanding current programs. He is enthusiastic about whole-person care and positioning BCHC as the preferred Patient-Centered Medical Home for residents of the Rio Grande Valley.

Jason begins his role as CEO in early December of 2023.

Please join the patients, staff, and the Board of Directors in extending an enthusiastic welcome to our new leader, Mr. Jason Wallace.
